

itory and interests of every material sort were broadening? That is the effect of certain editorial declarations made since Manhattan Day. But the statement is too much for our credulity. New York knows from its own experience that petty jealousies and acrimony do not thrive amid the all-expanding interests of a city of metropolitan pretensions.

AT LAST.

The old saying that Holdfast is a better dog than Brag receives confirmation in the news from Washington.

The opposition to repeal is to be abandoned. Compromise is dead and buried. The "unconditional" policy is to be allowed to prevail, and the bill wiping out the silver-purchasing clause of the Sherman law is to go to a vote as it passed the House. That, of course, means its passage by the Senate and its approval by the President.

The Democratic silver Senators were the first to return to reason and haul down the filibustering flag. The Republican silverites followed their lead, and no obstructionists now appear on the surface except the three Populists. Under these circumstances it may be fairly predicted that the disgraceful scenes in the Senate will speedily be brought to a close, and that the business of legislation will be resumed.

This result will be mainly due to the resolute attitude of the Administration. The recent vigorous effort to bring about a compromise was really the means of hastening the crisis, because it afforded an opportunity of letting the Democratic Senators know distinctly and positively that no compromise would be acceptable to the President or the Secretary of the Treasury. The chief honors of the triumph of unconditional repeal will therefore go to President Cleveland.

But Senator Hill's course has contributed largely to victory—perhaps more largely than appears on the surface—because he is entitled to his share of the laurels. The plain, practical fact is that the Republican Senators, one and all, feared the success of Mr. Hill's obstructive proposition, which would close the future of the inevitable fight over the Tariff and the Federal Election bills. They preferred the passage of unconditional repeal, which all the Republican Senators, one and all, feared the success of Mr. Hill's obstructive proposition, which would close the future of the inevitable fight over the Tariff and the Federal Election bills. They preferred the passage of unconditional repeal, which all the Republican Senators, one and all, feared the success of Mr. Hill's obstructive proposition, which would close the future of the inevitable fight over the Tariff and the Federal Election bills.

Of course, the end is not yet reached. It is not likely that any change of policy will take place among the Republican Senators on the Republican or Democratic side. But the Populists may possibly filibuster on amendments and drive off the vote until after election. But there is little doubt that within a few days the vote will be taken in the Senate on the unconditional repeal bill and the bill will become a law.

WELL, WHY NOT?

A few days ago Senator Butler made an amusing speech in the Senate, in which, commenting on the harmony that prevails in the Democratic party, he drew a picture of an imaginary meeting between President Cleveland and Senator David H. Hill, in which the gushing sentiment of the once estranged leaders would be touching to behold.

Now comes a rumor from Washington that the President and the New York Senator are about to bury the hatchet and to become reconciled. The story is that Senator Hill's stalwart backing of the President's unconditional repeal policy, his hearty endorsement of Mr. Cleveland's administration in his Brooklyn speech, and his evident determination to aid in carrying through all the reform measures to which the party is pledged, have endeared him to the President, who has taken the initiative in arrangements for a friendly meeting.

Well, why not? President Cleveland and Senator Hill are the two leading Democrats of the Empire State. They are in accord on the fundamental principles of Democracy. Why should petty differences keep them apart? The measure of Mr. Cleveland's ambition is full. He has received for a second time the highest honor in the nation. He has established himself for all time in the esteem and confidence of the American people. Senator Hill's reputation is widening in his more extended sphere, and his prospects were never brighter than they are today. Why, then, if the two great leaders united, Democracy in New York would be invincible.

If the rumored reconciliation should actually take place, it would doubtless be earnest and sincere. There would be no poisoned ditches at the love-feast, and while our mutual friend, the gallant Secretary of War, might be present, there would be no search for the concealed knives at the entrance of the hall of harmony.

LET THE TRUTH BE KNOWN.

Nine of the late officers and directors of the broken Madison Square Bank are now under arrest and have given bail for their appearance for trial on the charges made against them in the indictment found by the Grand Jury. Naturally this raid upon the ex-finance has excited the keenest interest among the friends, and while some of the accused take the matter as coolly and philosophically as if they were used to it, others are worried or enraged, just as their feelings or their tears may prompt.

Mr. Simon Ottenberg, one of the indicted officers, made the significant declaration yesterday that if he were to have a hearing the District Attorney's office would be kept busy with the names of men who have not yet been mentioned, and he hinted at politics of a "purely local nature" entering into the affair. Mr. Ottenberg should be given the extension he desires. If the act of any hidden story connected with the bank it ought to be brought to light.

These rumors of a union of banking and politics render it all the more important that the indictments found by the Grand Jury should be pushed to trial promptly and seriously. There should be no child's play about the matter. The swindled depositors are suffering and are entitled to know what has become of their money. The District Attorney should give Mr. Ottenberg an opportunity to tell all he knows.

LET US HAVE FAIR PLAY.

The Police Commissioners are taking advantage of technicalities to refuse printing of ballots for some of the anti-Tammany candidates for members of Assembly. The names of H. D. Klinker, Otto Kemper, Walter Bahan and five others were either rejected or held over.

It is said that the three first named candidates will apply to the courts to compel the Police Commissioners to recognize their affidavits of nomination.

It is not a wise policy to deal unjustly and illegally with independent candidates. It only increases their strength with the people by making them martyrs.

It is to be regretted that the Tammany Police Commissioners do not take a broader and more liberal view of their duty and policy.

WHEN THE SILVER BILL IS REPEALED.

The Silver Bill is going to be repealed! Hurray! Rossy joy stands upon the mountain tops of our hopes. Hard times are getting ready to "fly the coop" and good times are coming. Soon we will all be eating cake and drinking wine. A peep peeping through the gates of Paradise has more glorious vision than we are now blast with as we look forward to the treasure-teeming days that will follow the doom of the Silver Bill.

That bill brought us all our woes. It was rammed through with calamity, but the country didn't want it. We loaded it on the mountain tops of our hopes.
